2015 Fall/Winter Internship

Dates: This internship runs from August 31, 2015 to December 22, 2015

Deadline: All application materials are due by August 9, 2015

Who can be an intern?

College students, along with other interested individuals not affiliated with a particular academic institution at this time.

What do interns do?

Interns at Marfa Public Radio have a unique opportunity to gain hands-on experience in many areas of public radio operations, including (but not limited to) audio production and engineering, broadcast announcing, non-profit development strategies, public media content creation and broadcast technology. Interns participate in a full-time (40 hour) or part-time (20 hour) work week, and assist with everything from basic daily operations to unique programming events, such as fundraising drives and regional news coverage. All internships are unpaid positions, but Marfa Public Radio does provide housing and utilities for full-time interns. Opportunities for semester-long special projects may also be discussed.

Policies

No applicant or intern will be discriminated against because of race, color, religion, national origin, age, gender, sexual orientation or any other basis which is prohibited by applicable Federal, State or City law.

How to Apply

Prospective interns should direct their applications to sara@marfapublicradio.org. The applicant will be contacted for an interview if the applicant is eligible and if an intern position is available. If not, the application will be kept on file so the applicant may be notified of the next available opening.
