Program Overview

Master of Education General with Specialization Program
This is a 33-hours graduate program leading to a Master of Education degree in a specialization of the student’s choice. The program provides students with a comprehensive and life changing education to expand their cultural awareness, creativity and service. The program is predominantly online and is not associated with a teaching credential, so students have flexibility to select courses that meet their individual interests and career goals.

The Master of Education degree is designed for students who wish to acquire a strong foundation in the practical and theoretical aspects of education, considering past and contemporary issues. Students who complete the program will acquire professional knowledge, conceptual understanding and instructional applications to enable them to assume leadership positions improving the overall quality of education in their selected areas of specialization and deepening their knowledge of this important field of study. Interdepartmental collaboration among graduate students, Education Department faculty, and other department professors, in the students’ selected areas of specialization, enrich students’ experiences. SRSU offers a unique approach to degree plan development through consultations among graduate students and department advisors. Graduate students tailor their own degree plans to best meet their interests and needs.

The degree leads to a variety of opportunities including:
- Eligibility to teach dual-credit courses in high schools (with existing educator certificate).
- School or district level leadership positions.
- Eligibility to teach courses at community colleges.
- Professional and personal readings and research in the field of education.
- Preparation for doctoral work in university graduate programs.
- Technology integration specialist.

 Marketable Skills

The Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board directs all academic degree programs to feature marketable skills. These skills are more global in nature and would have application in any professional setting. Through the coursework, students will develop these marketable skills that are applicable in any work place.

1. Students will develop writing skills for effective communication.
2. Students will develop research skills to promote life-long learning.
3. Students will demonstrate an understanding of diversity.
Student Learning Outcomes

As a member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges (SACSCOC), Sul Ross State University requires that all degree programs include Student Learning Outcomes (SLO). The SLO’s are more academic and infused in all of the courses. The assessments for the SLO’s will be embedded in designated courses.

1. Students will demonstrate writing skills and the ability to use research methodology to design a research paper (measured in ED 5307).
2. Students will identify diversity practices in education (measured in ED 5316).
3. Students will demonstrate their understanding of content in their chosen area of specialization (measured in Comprehensive Exam).

Comprehensive Examination

All students are required to pass a comprehensive exam that is administered during the last semester of the course work. The exam consists of four questions with two addressing the five required courses and two addressing the six courses in the specialization. Prior to the test, students are given a study packet to use in preparation. Graduate students are allowed up to four hours to take the exam in a proctored setting either in Alpine or a mutually agreed upon testing center. The questions are developed and graded by the faculty who teach the respective courses. All faculty use the same scoring rubric to evaluate a student’s response and indicate if the student’s response is failing, proficient, or exemplary. Students are given the scoring rubric in advance, so they understand how they will be evaluated. To earn exemplary, students must receive that rating on each of the questions. If students do not receive proficient or higher on the first test administration, they will be given an additional testing opportunity. Each comprehensive exam will be different depending upon the area of specialization that the student selected and the faculty who taught the courses and wrote the exam questions.

Master of Education General Online Program
Student Information

Instruction for this program occurs online between the instructors and the students through Blackboard.

- Online students are subject to the same university policies and procedures applicable to students attending face-to-face courses on campus.
- The course syllabus is available on Blackboard prior to the beginning of each semester. This document describes the course content, goals, assignments, due dates, and student expectations. Criteria for success for online students is as rigorous and comprehensive as those used in face-to-face courses.
- Communication between instructor and student occurs through Blackboard and/or SRSU email. Students can expect to receive feedback for their assignments within five working days and responses to their emails within 48 hours.
- Technical support is available M-F, 8:30 -5:30, Tim Parsons at tparsons@sulross.edu; or Sul Ross help desk: 432-837-8888.
- Attendance policies in effect for face-to-face instruction also apply to online students. This policy is interpreted as not participating for more than three weeks in a long semester or one week in a shorter session. Any student dropped for non-participation will receive an F in the course dropped.
- Academic integrity is crucial for online instruction. To ensure academic integrity, online students are expected to honestly identify themselves.
- The program is designed to accommodate working schedules.
- The program is designed so that it may be completed in one year (with some exceptions in specialization courses)
• All technology specialization courses are offered completely online in eight weeks modules to fit into students’ busy life styles.
